IN HOC SIGNO VINCES.

ALL great, successful, and progressive ideas bearing on the public life and policy of the Nation, within the last thirty years, have been originated by Republicans.

Reciprocity is a great, successful and progressive idea.

"KENTUCKY needs a new insane asylum, a school of reform, a new executive mansion, a new Statehouse, and more for its convicts," says a Democratic exchange. Now, why don't you just speak right out plain and say that she needs a new deal altogether,—and a change of parties at Frankfort and a look at the books?

In 1860, after fourteen years of revenue tariff, cigar making was a rather insignificant industry in the United States. Cigars were imported from Europe and retailed for less than it now costs for the labor of making them. Under thirty years of Protection, the business has grown to prodigious proportions and furnishes investments for thousands of small capitalists and employment for tens of thousands of workmen.

THEY never tire, do these Free-traders, of telling us of the superior skill, genius and effectiveness of American workmen—sufficient, as they assert, to more than counterbalance the lower wages paid in other countries. On the other hand, any one of these same Free-traders will promptly compile for you a long list of articles which they say American labor cannot produce so well as foreign labor can, and for that reason ought to be allowed to come in free.

AN invoice of 53,000 feather roosters is due from China at the Cincinnati Custom-house, and one of 53,000 was received last week. They are intended for the coming Democratic campaign and will probably be worn on the hats of parading Democracy. American workmen should stick a dray-pin here. The Democrats are very solicitous for the welfare of American workmen, indeed, when they ask them to parade under an emblem made by Chinese labor.
